

'Small town America' favors more swift, stern justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new poll described as "a unique look into small town America" may fuel the growing political pressure for swift and certain prison sentences for criminals.

The findings show nearly 70 per cent of 18,827 club women surveyed — most of them white and middle-class — believe that harsh prison sentences and reinstatement of the death penalty would reduce crime.

The poll also showed that 33 per cent believe probation is more effective than prison and that 27 per cent believe many prison inmates could be dealt with more effectively in community treatment programs.

But, curiously, an overwhelming 82 per cent agreed with the proposition that citizens should open their neighborhoods to community-based programs for convicted criminals.

The poll was conducted by the General Federation of Women's Clubs to enlist its 600,000 members in a national "Hands Up" volunteer campaign against crime. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration is financing the effort with a $380,000 grant.

The National Council on Crime and Delinquency tabulated and analyzed the poll of club members. Another 18,480 non-members also were polled but there were no percentage figures available for that group. Most of those in both groups polled "were women over the age of 40, ... of at least average intelligence and of at least average means," the report said.

"There is reason to believe that the overwhelming majority were white," and most live in towns with a population of 50, 000 or less, the report said. Justus Friemund, the NCCD official who is analyzing the data, said the findings could provide members of Congress a fresh source of information about their constituents' attitudes.

He noted that club women in many communities are politically active, either as a group or individually. President Ford has proposed legislation setting mandatory prison sentences for those convicted of violent crimes and repeated offenses, and has urged state and local governments to follow suit.

The call for tougher jail sentences is attracting increased support.

Fighting threatens Lebanese truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Heavy fighting broke out between Moslem and Christian militias on Beirut's eastern outskirts today, endangering a Syrian-sponsored truce that had been reported generally effective.

But a police spokesman said a joint peacekeeping force of Syrians, Lebanese and Palestinians stopped the fighting between the Christian suburb of Ein Rummaneh and the Moslem neighborhood of Chiyah.

Militiamen of both sides raided each other's positions and the two districts exchanged mortar and rocket fire, a police spokesman said. Each side claimed it was defending its territory against attacks by the other.

The fighting broke out as Palestine Liberation Army soldiers policed Moslem-controlled western Beirut, warning that looters would be shot on sight, and occupied a large part of eastern Lebanon.

The Palestinians rolled into the Lebanese capital in a convoy of Russian trucks to enforce the cease-fire, and a top Palestinian officer said Lebanon "has entered the genuine stage of ending the fighting."

Prior to the outbreak of fighting between Ein Rummaneh and Chiyah, a Lebanese military spokesman reported only "scattered, isolated incidents" of violence in the cease-fire. But at least 14 persons were reportedly killed and another 22 wounded. More than 9,000 have been killed in the nine-month-old civil war.

The Beirut-Damascus and Beirut-Sidon highways were declared open for normal traffic today. Fuel tankers and trucks carrying flour and vegetables began arriving in the capital to ease a worsening food shortage.

Beirut airport reopened Friday for the first time in a week, and the first plane to land carried a team of Syrian army officers to help supervise the truce.

The Palestinian army units patrolling Beirut streets and occupying much of eastern Lebanon had crossed the border from Syria earlier in the week.

Syria has pledged to withdraw the entire guerrilla force from Lebanon as soon as Lebanese internal security forces are able to resume their functions, officials here said.

Associated Press correspondent Edward Cody toured eastern Lebanon, and said battle-hardened Palestinian soldiers were running the area like conquered territory.

"We are masters of all the strategic military points," said Abu Amjad, battle zone political officer for the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

"We will not leave before making sure that the national demands of the Lebanese progressive forces are satisfied." He referred to the Syrian-sponsored cease-fire agreement designed to equalize Christian and Moslem political power.

Palestinian spokesmen said an agreement to let the PLA soldiers patrol Beirut had been worked out by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam: Yasir Arafat, head of the PLA's parent Palestine Liberation Organization; and left-wing Moslem leaders.

The Lebanese government made no comment on the agreement, which was announced on state-run television and radio. But the right-wing Phalange party, which has the largest of the Christian militias, said the agreement violated Lebanese sovereignty.

Lebanese police pulled out of western Beirut several days ago.

The truce agreement established a commission of two ranking officers from the Lebanese, Syrian and Palestinian armies that is to set guidelines for a political settlement.

Kissinger signs treaty for continued use of Spanish bases

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Madrid today to sign a treaty continuing the use of four American military bases in Spain in exchange for $1.25 million in U.S. aid and to confer with King Juan Carlos.

Kissinger was met at Madrid's Barajas Airport by Spanish Foreign Minister Jose Maria Arellano. The two are scheduled to sign the bases treaty before Kissinger returns to Washington Sunday.

The pact will require ratification by a two-thirds vote of the U.S. Senate. The bases have been operated under Spanish-American executive agreements, which do not require Senate ratification.

Kissinger flew here from Brussels, where he told North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers the Soviet Union has proposed a 10 per cent reduction in all U.S. and Soviet nuclear weapons as a way to break a deadlock on strategic arms limitation talks.

But Kissinger told a news conference after the meeting that this was only one of several ideas and it might or might not appear in the final package.

U.S. officials said that under the new treaty arrangement with Spain, Washington has agreed to withdraw its nuclear submarines from Rota naval base in southern Spain by 1980.

American officials said the Polaris submarines tying up at the Spanish base could be pulled without strategic loss because of the U.S. Navy's new wide-ranging Trident submarine.

The Rota base also serves as communications and supply center for the American Navy.

The United States agreed, the officials said, to begin pulling out 10 missile-firing submarines from the Rota base in January 1979 with all of them gone by June 1979.

The U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff approved the Spanish demands, which American officials said were insistent due to "domestic sensibilities."

In Brussels, Kissinger said the Soviet Union's proposals on nuclear weapons were "significant and constructive." But one official said a lot of work remained to be done, and Kissinger might have to make one or two trips back to Moscow to complete the basic outlines of an accord.

But the official said if the negotiations progress smoothly, Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, with whom Kissinger met in Moscow, might come to Washington as early as May to sign a new treaty with President Ford.

The principal problem now is reported to concern whether to include the new U.S. cruise missile and the Soviet Backfire bomber in the new agreement.

The Soviets apparently were less receptive to Kissinger's reminding Brezhnev that Soviet aid to one faction in the Angolan civil war was undermining East-West détente.

And the Soviets reportedly indicated no interest in an American proposal to pull 1,000 tactical nuclear warheads out of Europe in return for the Soviet withdrawal of a tank army.

The NATO foreign ministers reacted favorably to Kissinger's report on the arms negotiations, but some, notably West Germany's Hans Dietrich Genscher, said they were still much concerned about the Angolan situation.

The Popular Movement (MPLA) in Angola, armed with Soviet tanks, artillery, and rocket launchers and spearheaded by Cuban combat troops, was reported today scoring more victories over the pro-Western National Union (UNITA).

Medical checkup for President today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, who prides himself on his health, entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center today for a three-hour examination to find out just how healthy he is.

Ford arrived at the center shortly after 8 a.m. after a half-hour trip by motorcade from the White House. A team of doctors immediately began conducting the annual medical examination.

The President has directed his White House physician, Dr. William Lukash, to make public a detailed report on the findings.

Commenting on his health just before the checkup, Ford said he was "in the best of health, mentally and physically, that I have ever been."

His last full physical was a year ago, Jan. 25, 1975, although he had a 35-minute checkup on his 62nd birthday in July. He commented then that he felt "about 40" years old.

The President boasts of his good health, keeping up a regimen of exercise including swimming in the heated outdoor White House pool, even in rainy and below freezing weather.

During the past year, Ford had one illness — a four-day bout with a sinus cold and fever that kept him from his office and curtailed his activities for a week in October.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen disclosed then that Ford had "a history of having sensitive sinuses."

Early in December it was learned that a benign wart was removed from the President's left eyelid by Lukash, who considered it too minor to make public.

Ford's only other health problem has been off-and-on trouble with his knees.

Venier burglary being probed

Dixon Police are investigating a burglary which occurred early this morning at Venier's Jewelry, 117 W. First St.

Police authorities received the alarm from the store at approximately 1 a.m. this morning. The east and west windows of the store had been broken. Owners of the store, Louis and Joseph Venier, were called to the scene shortly after police arrived.

An inventory and estimated values of items taken were expected to be received today. The investigation is continuing.

A later report indicated that about the same time a window was broken at Woolworth's. The report is incomplete.

Authorities often at fault, witness study shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scene is a threateningly familiar one on city streets:

A man is robbed. A witness helps the victim hail the police, who capture a suspect and take the witness' name and address.

The witness is subpoenaed to testify at the trial. But he does not show up. The victim cannot identify the robber and the case is scratched.

"Uncooperative witness," says the prosecutor. Just another person who didn't want to get involved?

Maybe not, says an Institute for Law and Social Research study.

Working under a federal grant, door-to-door interviewers for the institute talked with 922 witnesses in Washington and its suburbs who had been labeled uncooperative by prosecutors.

In 25 per cent of the cases the people said they wanted to cooperate, but were never contacted. It turned out the police had the wrong address and the witnesses never received their subpoenas.

Doubtless some of the prospective witnesses deliberately gave wrong information to throw the authorities off their trail, said the institute's president, William Hamilton.

But other reasons were found also. Police sometimes took down the address wrong — "P" Street for "T" Street, for instance.

Some officers were observed asking witnesses for their names and addresses within earshot of suspects, making the witnesses fearful to give correct information.

The Washington study was the most ambitious yet, but smaller-scale surveys in Chicago and New York came up with similar results.

A Chicago Crime Commission study indicates that witnesses associated with 33 per cent of 264 serious cases could not be located because of erroneous phone numbers or addresses.

A study of New York City crime victims reported that 16 per cent of 10,000 letters to victims were returned with such notations as "addressee unknown" or "no such street."

The Washington study also concluded that police and prosecutors were failing to properly advise witnesses what they are supposed to do once they are called.

The study revealed that 43 per cent of 594 witnesses said they did not receive an explanation of the major steps of the court process.

For instance, one witness received a subpoena to appear before a grand jury and complied with it. A few weeks later he received a subpoena for the trial, but assumed it was a mistake because he had already testified. So he didn't show up.

Interviewers for the institute talked to witnesses both in ghetto areas of Washington and in prosperous suburban neighborhoods. More than 80 per cent of those interviewed in the city were black, while 70 per cent of those in the suburbs were white.

Pipeline cost soaring

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The pricetag on the trans-Alaska pipeline has leaped from $6.3 billion to $7 billion, only days after builders warned that theft and waste will not be tolerated during the last half of the big construction job.

The old cost estimate is void "on the basis of trends developed from the construction experience to date," Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. said in an 86-word statement.

Alyeska is the construction consortium formed by eight major oil companies financing the 798-mile pipeline which stretches from Prudhoe Bay on the Arctic Coast to the Valdez tanker terminal on the Gulf of Alaska.

Alyeska said most of the materials needed to complete the project by July 1977 have been ordered and "the principal area remaining for possible cost changes is labor productivity."

The total project now is 41 per cent complete, and more than 50 per cent of the actual steel tube is in place.

Another potato chip battle is brewing

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Crunch! Another shot is about to be fired in the continuing war between Pringle's and the potato chip industry.

Pringle's, Procter & Gamble's "newfangled" product that features regularly shaped, evenly stacked chips in a can, won the last battle.

Victory came late last year when the Food and Drug Administration ruled that Pringle's and similar products can use the term "potato chip" as long as they also use the qualifying phrase "made from dried potatoes" on the package.

The Potato Chip Institute International of Cleveland is mapping strategy to strike back. An institute spokesman said Thursday that institute representatives will decide at an Atlanta trade show next month whether to take any action against the FDA ruling. He did not say what sort of moves were being considered.

Pringle's reportedly is pondering a counterattack, although company spokesmen refused to confirm or deny any new moves. Among the rumored possibilities are ridged Pringle's and a new, improved flavor.

The Potato Chip Institute has been fighting Pringle's ever since the product was test-marketed in the late 1960s. In May 1975, Pringle's achieved national distribution and the war escalated. The institute claims Pringle's aren't "real potato chips" since they are made from dried potatoes and have additives not found in the natural products.

A potato chip, says the institute, is a "slice of fresh, raw potato, deep fried in vegetable oil, salted and packaged." No more.

Procter & Gamble spokesmen never denied that their product comes from dehydrated potatoes. They simply argue that a potato is a potato is a potato — even if dried — and, therefore, a potato chip is a potato chip, etc.

Kagay trial set Feb. 2

Scott Kagay, the 14-year-old former Amboy resident accused in the murder of Harold Smith, has been transferred to the Rockford Juvenile Detention Center. The boy appeared Thursday before Chief Circuit Judge James E. Bales after being released from Galesburg Mental Health Center. Judge Bales ordered him detained until trial scheduled for Feb. 2. Smith was shot once in the head on Aug. 11 while in his orchard at 321 S. Jefferson St. in Amboy. Kagay was arrested on Oct. 21 following an investigation by State's Atty. Patrick E. Ward and sheriff's deputies. The bench trial is scheduled before Circuit Judge Thomas Hornsby in juvenile court.

Debt interest tops the public interest

By TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON (NEA)— Though no one has paid any mind, the nation has recorded another economic superlative. Three times this year Congress has raised the temporary ceiling on the public debt, for a total of more than $100 billion, the largest annual increase in the nation's history, no less, and by way of comparison twice as much as the total debt itself of 35 years ago.

Surely, some public note should be taken. A toast, perhaps, to solvency: "The covetous man never has money, the prodigal will have none soon." For in registering this milestone—the first nation to vote $100 billion into the red in a single annum—America solidifies its claim as the world's most impossibly indebted society.

And apparently we haven't seen anything yet. It took the United States 165 years to compile its first $200 billion in deficits, only 28 years to double that, and at the present rate perhaps as few as four more to double it again. The obligation sum is now $565 billion, growing at about $300 million a day; if the trend continues the liability will total about $800 billion by 1978, and a trillion by the decade's end.

It is, on second thought, not surprising that such figures are easily excluded from the public gossip. Americans stopped counting these pennies during World War II when it was estimated that the U.S. debt was growing larger than that of all other free nations combined. Besides this, back then, government leaders began a campaign to dispel the old notion that national debt is bad. The new line, which millions of citizens happily accepted, was that debt was good, and, furthermore, heavy debt was even gooder—after all, said the leaders, "all it is money that we owe ourselves."

Since then the selling of the debt has continued energetically, although sophistifications have been added. Now the idea is to say it's good if your party is in power, but bad if it isn't. Richard Nixon, who taught us to much about flexibility, said while campaigning for office that the debt rolled up by Lyndon Johnson "has plunged the free world monetary system into a profound crisis." Johnson added $57 billion to the debt; Nixon, it turned out, a third again as much.

There is, of course, at least one other reason why the public ignores its phenomenal debt: nobody understands it. The government, for example, claims it is "money we owe ourselves," but that is not necessarily true. Foreign governments hold notes on $68 billion of it. So what happens when an Arab prince wants his due? The government borrows from somebody else to make good. That kind of business makes sense only to bookies.

"It's all very complicated," says a Treasury Department official; in other words, he doesn't know either.

What is known about the public debt, however, for those who are honest about it, is that it is reaching proportions where even its advocates are beginning to worry. Congress, for instance, flatly refused recently when it was asked to raise the debt ceiling by $20 billion, and held the line valiantly at only 18. "History," said Rep. Chalmers Wylie at the time, grimly, "is littered with the bones of governments that would not or could not face fiscal reality."

The fiscal reality here seems plain enough. Just the interest on the current debt—$36 billion this year—is the third largest single appropriation in the federal budget. And to pay it the government must naturally tax the citizenry. How much? Roughly $400 on each of the returns that will be filed this year. More next year. More the year after that, ad infinitum. The bottom line is that Americans spend more annually on public debt interest than on veterans benefits, medicare assistance and aid to the blind, deaf and the halt.

Still, the debt grows in a vacuum of public disinterest, to nearly $3,000 for every man, woman and child in the nation. Two billion in 1900, $24 billion in 1920, $42 billion in 1940, $286 billion in 1960, and an estimated $640 billion in 1976. Where does it end? Money makes a good servant, it's written, but a lousy master. The only thing we really owe ourselves is the resolve to get out of this mess.

"... and if we continue to limit our strategic arms they promise to stay out of Lake Erie, the Vatican and Disney World."

Eating less evil

The latest man-made substance banned by the Food and Drug Administration because it has induced cancer in laboratory animals is Red Dye No. 2, used for decades in a host of products as a coloring agent.

Actually, if the Delaney Clause of the Food and Drug Act, which prohibits the use of food additives known to produce cancer, were applied to natural substances, no foodstuff could be legally sold or consumed. Or so contends Russell S. Adams Jr., a professor of soil science at the University of Minnesota.

There are many natural substances in the environment, he says, which are among the most powerful toxins and carcinogens (cancer producers) known to man and which are often present in the soil at much higher levels than pesticides. What is not yet known with certainty, however, is whether these chemicals are taken up by plants and translocated in biologically active form to the human diet.

Further complicating the matter is the debate over whether carcinogens can produce cancer at any dose level or whether there are "thresholds" below which they are safe. According to Adams, the normal laboratory rat or mouse is highly susceptible to cancer, even when not experimentally exposed to cancer-causing chemicals.

Also, as laboratory techniques improve, what is considered to be a "zero" level of danger today, which the Delaney Clause demands, may not be a "zero" level tomorrow.

"In a practical sense," says Adams, "we must establish finite tolerances for substances we wish to avoid. Rarely will we be presented with clear-cut decisions. Usually a choice must be made between the less hazardous of two alternatives."

Most Americans, however, have come to expect certainty from scientists and clear-cut decisions from those charged with protecting the public welfare. Thus we seem to be on our way to developing the healthiest rats in the world, if nothing else.

Things Dixon Talked About

25 YEARS AGO
Dixon's City Council moved swiftly Tuesday to satisfy a citizen's plea for a street light and an improved alley near Johnson Street and Ogletree Place. The Mayor promised he'd see INU officials this morning about a street light at the corner of Johnson and Ogletree. The commissioner of streets promised to gravel an unpaved alley in back of Johnson Street when conditions permitted. Approximately 40 seconds elapsed between the plea and the promises. The primary election is Feb. 27, the city election April 17.

50 YEARS AGO
Tomorrow night on the Y court the Dixon Triangles will meet the team from Sterling, composed of former high school stars but having no team name. This is expected to be an easy victory for the Triangles. There is no admission charge to watch the practice, but a small fee is required for the game.

Keeping cloak and dagger boys honest

By NEA—London Economist News Service

The Central Intelligence Agency has done some brutal and stupid things in its time, and it has made some bad mistakes. But the current American heart-searching about its activities has gone beyond the uncovering of the unpleasant part.

There is a more fundamental question that most people are dodging. Should covert activities in the pursuit of foreign policy have any role in a democratic society; and, if they should, how can they be controlled? This is not just an American problem, although it is the Americans who have dragged it into the light this time. The other Western countries all have their own potentially embarrassing intelligence operations; and they all have a stake in what happens to the CIA.

There are two sorts of covert activity. First, there is the sort that collects information: spies, electronic satellites, radio-monitoring ships and the rest. Second, there are the "special operations" that go further than just finding out. They are designed to make things happen—or not happen—in the country that is their target.

In recent years it is the second sort that has got most of the attention, and a large part of the intelligence agencies' resources. This is because technology has come to be the best way of gathering many sorts of information. Machines do it better than old-fashioned spies:

communications interception and satellite reconnaissance have become the mainstays of the business. So the spook-shops have stolen the limelight. They range from misleading propaganda (a KGB specialty) and the financing of foreign political parties (a CIA favorite) through economic disruption, blackmail and assassinations to arranged rebellions and even wars.

There is a bad argument, and a good one, against covert operations. Some intelligent and honorable men believe that there should be no such thing as secrecy in the policies of a democracy. But democratic societies are more open in almost every respect than the totalitarian states that are often their adversaries. They start with that disadvantage: to dismantle one of their few remaining areas of secrecy would weaken them still further. Some sorts of covert activity are necessary for the non-Communist countries, and that certainly includes the collection of intelligence about potential enemies.

The better argument against secrecy is that it increases the difficulty of keeping the intelligence agencies under control. The usual means of controlling the actions of government in a democracy are the press, legislature and public opinion (roughly in that order of effectiveness). But that will not work in the field of secret activities, because it means the end of secrecy; the murder of the CIA's man in Athens is one consequence of that.

But it is equally ineffectual to

Last November, a jumbo jet was completely destroyed at Kennedy International Airport in New York when it struck a flock of seagulls during take-off, causing an engine to burst into flames and fall off the wing. Fortunately, all passengers and crew escaped with only minor injuries.

But aircraft-bird collisions are only the most spectacular examples of a problem that is causing increasing concern. In recent years, various counties in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and elsewhere have been reporting vast numbers of troubling birds roosting in and around their towns.

These fine-feathered friends pose dangers not only to agricultural crops but to human health. Among diseases carried or transmitted to humans through infected droppings. Other bird-carried diseases can be fatal to animals.

Major American cities also have bird overpopulation problems. New York has five million street pigeons and Buffalo estimates it has at least one pigeon for each of the city's 465,000 people.

The Audubon and Humane Societies agree that America's huge bird population must be controlled, but so far no method that is acceptable to bird-lovers or that is completely effective has been found.

The use of recorded bird distress signals or loud noises to scare off birds has proved inefficient since the birds either move to a neighboring area or return to the same area as soon as the noise ceases.

At Kennedy, a plan to distribute poison at a nearby garbage dump that attracts the gulls was shelved after the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals pointed out that the birds might fly off with the poisoned food and drop it elsewhere for consumption by other animals.

Also controversial, but apparently more successful, was the Army's spraying of millions of starlings and grackles near Fort Campbell, Ky., last year with a wetting agent that made them succumb to low temperatures.

Almost everyone agrees that the ultimate solution is to come up with some sort of avian birth control pill. Until that happens, we can only hope that the birds don't turn vicious the way they did in the 1963 Hitchcock movie of that name.

What's not seen; we can't fight

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)— To a marked degree, it was a failure of British and French military intelligence that enabled Hitler to make his rapid conquest of France in World War II.

It was a failure of intelligence which made Pearl Harbor possible, and which led in some considerable measure to the misconceptions resulting in our unsuccessful effort in South Vietnam.

It was a failure of intelligence also which resulted in the much heavier than expected early Israeli losses in the last round with Egypt.

Today, we are not well informed on the expansion of Peking- or Hanoi-backed underground groups in Thailand, Malaysia and the Philippines which could endanger the existence of those lands. We are not certain by any means of North Korea's scenario for an invasion of the south, or whether such an invasion is planned for the near future.

Had Soviet and Cuban plans for Angola been known early enough in the game, this country might have been able to take political and economic action at a strategic moment to prevent the introduction of outsiders. One commitments have become as deep as today in Angola, peaceful resolution becomes difficult indeed.

If the Russians know the Western order of battle in Europe and we don't know the Soviet dispositions and strengths in the border areas and the details which normally are preludes to attacks, the USSR can arrange easily to be in a position to roll over the NATO forces in the first hours of a Red attack.

It is all very well to talk about defending ourselves from a Russian attack after Moscow launches its missiles or sends its troops across strategic borders. But it is certain that unless we have more warning than we can acquire from satellites and other electronic means, we shall be ill prepared at the crucial moment and suffer many more civilian and military casualties than if we had better intelligence. No nation can afford to be on ready alert in full force year after year without going broke emotionally and economically.

All this is a prelude to saying that if we are to avoid war, or successfully defend ourselves if and when war comes, we must know in detail what potential attackers are planning.

Your life and mine, and the lives of untold millions may depend on our having such adequate intelligence. It may make the difference between war and peace.

We are not here talking of dirty tricks or assassinations of foreign leaders or other special operations which have no place in spying. We are talking solely of the gathering of information on the possible actions and capabilities of foreign aggressive powers and foreign terrorist organizations, actions which could endanger the U.S. or its allies in the free world.

Russia and its satellites do not announce their planning or build-ups in the daily press, and if we allow our spy organizations to be destroyed or emasculated it is not only a clutch of CIA agents who will be endangered. Spy satellites, other electronic means and document analysis are not enough.

In the final analysis there is no substitute for skilled men and women operatives. Not Mata Hari types, but rather researchers who slowly build contacts in one country and another to contribute missing links in our knowledge. Because of the all pervasive police systems in Communist and other totalitarian nations, a good deal of the agent information must be picked up in third countries.

ties: no assassinations, for instance, except perhaps in time of war; maybe no activities abroad at all that were not legal at home (though this would severely hamper the effectiveness of the CIA and other agencies); fixed budgets, rather than open-ended ones, for specific projects.

It could be subject to interrogation—in countries, such as the United States, which like to give their representatives that sort of power—by a special committee of the legislature.

It would also help if information-gathering and "special operations" were separated from each other and carried out by two different organizations. The supervising body, and the president or prime minister to whom it reported, would then be in a position to use the information-gathering organization to check the results of work done by the other, more dubious, agency of surreptitious fixers.

None of this would remove all possibility of error. But the thing about covert operators is that unlike doctors, who bury their mistakes, the secret agents love to bury their successes; it is the failures that are more easily brought into the open. If this sort of watchdog were created, democracies would have a better means of keeping control over their undercover men; and they would be less likely, out of pure exasperation, to chuck away the whole idea of covert operations.

Coping with Your Income Tax—5

Individual retirement plans offer savings

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the fifth in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1975 tax returns.

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A sizable tax break is possible for 1975 for people who invested in their own individual retirement accounts under a new program that went into effect during the year.

Taxpayers who want the most for their earnings, and to keep taxes to a minimum, should make themselves familiar with this program. Although it's too late now to start for 1975, it can be joined in 1976 and in future years.

All of the wide range of deductions should be closely checked by taxpayers in deciding whether they can do best by itemizing or claiming the standard deductions.

Many taxpayers overlook such expenses as taxi fares to a doctor's office, which can be included in itemized deductions, IRS spokesmen say. Even whiskey, if prescribed by a doctor to ease an ailment, can be itemized as a deductible medical expense.

But the retirement investments are deductible whether the taxpayer itemizes or takes the standard deduction.

The Individual Retirement Savings Program, as it is officially known, was set up by Congress to help people create their own retirement benefits if they are not covered by a qualified retirement plan.

One congressional backer of the legislation said 53 per cent of the American work force had not been covered by retirement programs, including 88 per cent of the nation's working women. The program allows a participant to deduct up to $1,500 annually from his or her taxable income if the money is put into retirement savings and not used for any other purpose. The interest the money earns also is non-taxable.

When the participant does retire—no earlier than age 59½ years—taxes must be paid on the money as it is withdrawn from the account, but presumably he or she will be in a lower tax bracket by then.

The amount of money that can be exempted from taxation is the smallest of the following: one, the actual amount of the savings; two, 15 per cent of the participant's total wages; or $1,500.

Individual retirement accounts can be established at participating banks, federally insured credit unions and savings and loan associations. Also qualifying are individual retirement annuities of a life insurance company, individual retirement bonds purchased from the federal government, or trust accounts established by an employer or employees' association.

Both a husband and wife can claim the deduction if they adopt separate retirement savings programs and if they are otherwise eligible. It doesn't matter whether they file taxes jointly or separately.

The main thing to bear in mind is that the account will lose its exemption if the participant withdraws funds prematurely, that is, before the age of 59½. The funds can be withdrawn in the event the participant is disabled.

Savings withdrawn prematurely must be included in gross income during the tax year they are taken, and the taxpayer also must increase his or her tax by 10 per cent of the amount withdrawn.

Contributions to a retirement account in excess of what may be exempted are subject to a nondeductible 6 per cent excise tax.

In deciding whether to itemize deductions, a rule of thumb is that it's probably profitable to itemize if deductions exceed 16 per cent of gross income, or $2,600 for a joint return, since they are the maximum standard deductions.

Examples of deductions that may be itemized are payments for medical insurance and medical and dental care, in excess of certain limits; local and state taxes; alimony payments; interests on loans and mortgages; charitable gifts, and union dues.

Taxpayers with questions about deductions, or anything else regarding their taxes, are urged to consult the IRS at any local office or by calling the toll-free information numbers listed in the tax package.

The IRS also has available a 200-page taxpayers' guide called "Your Federal Income Tax" which can be obtained from IRS offices.

As usual, the IRS will compute a taxpayer's tax for him or her, as long as the taxpayer provides all of the relevant information on the tax return.

"I ask you, are we desensitized from caring? Have we become comfortable with violence ..."

Gift dog grows into 14 of them

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — When the Paul Felth family obtained Brandy, a 2½-year-old St. Bernard, three weeks ago they thought they were getting a dog. It turns out they were getting 14 of them.

Unknown to the Felths, Brandy was pregnant. Mrs. Felth says the couple only began to suspect it a week after they got the animal for nothing through a newspaper advertisement.

"We were bringing her into the house in the evening," she said. "My husband was petting and brushing her and he thought her stomach looked a little big."

Recalls Felth: "I said, 'wait a minute wife, I think we've been had.'"

A veterinarian agreed with their suspicions. And last Tuesday evening Brandy, about 170 pounds pregnant, began delivery in the family garage.

"First she had two, then six more came out about four hours later," recalls Felth. "I thought we were home free, but then they just kept coming."

When it was all over early Wednesday afternoon, 14 pups had emerged—one of them still-born but the rest alive and kicking. Mother was also doing well, said Felth.

"She looks very mystified, like, 'what's happened to me, but she's coming around real good,'" said Felth.

As for the proud father, no one's quite sure who he is. Mrs. Felth said she doesn't think the rural couple who gave Brandy to them knew she was pregnant, but the couple did recall seeing "a stray dog out there, maybe a Setter."

Felth said he first became aware Brandy was available through the newspaper ad, and "I thought, gee, free, I can't pass up that deal."

The family pet kitten had been killed by a car shortly after Thanksgiving, and Felth was looking for a St. Bernard to help make up for the loss.

Brandy has not started giving milk yet so the pups are being fed through an eyedropper, Felth said. He said the couple's three young children are helping in the task.

Felth, an assistant trust manager at a bank, said his acquaintances are well aware he's now got some dogs to give away. He said: "I keep walking up to people and they say, 'we'll talk to you—but no dogs.'"

Nevertheless, the Felths hope they can find other homes for all 13 pups.

Loosen up with belly dancing

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — The room is softly lighted by Middle Eastern lamps. A poster advertising Turkish cigarettes hang on one wall. There are a few plants in the corner near the record player.

Eight women of various ages and stages of physical fitness are standing in a semicircle facing a wall of mirrors. They are dressed in leotards and tights. One middle-aged woman is in shorts and a blouse. Most wear low-heeled dance shoes with a strap across the instep. The others are barefoot. They are watching a young blonde in leotards who has the best figure of all.

"When you're standing up, remember you're straight and tall," she says. "Now, keeping the shoulders over the knees, bend just the knees and tilt the top of the body back, keeping the trunk straight. Now, straighten up. You should feel it in your thighs. This is the pelvic tilt. It will be used with your lowering and tilting movements. Now, try it with me."

Stiffly, they tilt. Some do it better than others, but that's not what matters. Each woman is here — in a beginners' belly dancing class — for her own reasons:

To combat flab, ennuï or loss of identity as a woman. To improve her sex life, perhaps, and certainly to have a good time.

The belly dance, always snickeringly coupled with vulgarity, recently is being embraced by American women as the art form its serious practitioners see it.

"I went through a great deal of abuse trying to get it accepted," says Serena, in whose midtown New York studio the class is taking place. She's a soft-spoken, dark-haired woman.

SERENA: early snickers turned to pleased smiles.

"In a very quiet way, I started to teach 12 years ago — I learned to dance by watching native dancers in the Greek clubs on Eighth Avenue here — and slowly I began to attract more and more women who were very nice ladies. And I began to develop teachers who then went out on their own."

Now, 500 to 600 women a week take one hour lessons in Serena's studio, in classes of 10 to 20, at $45 for 10-lesson sequences.

And her teachers, as well as others, are enrolling students in classes taught in department stores, health clubs, YWCA's and even a few colleges. All over the country.

One of the students in the class just finishing is a plump, gray-haired physician in her 70s, who speaks with a slight German accent.

"I've been coming here every day for two years," she says. "I've never been so physically flexible in my life. Even when I was very young, I couldn't do this." Impulsively, she bends over, knees stiff, and flattens her palms to the floor.

"Yoga bores me to death," she continues, "but here, no two classes are ever the same. There is an infinite number of movements which require fantastic coordination, yet it's the most marvelous exercise for older people because nothing is based on leaping or jumping around." Muscles are gradually strengthened, without strain.

Anahid Sofian, small, dark, teaches belly dancing in her loft apartment in a residential street near Greenwich Village. Like Serena, there's often a mixture of vulnerability and pride in her eyes when she talks about her work. It comes from those years of performing in smoke-filled joints for audiences which, at first, caused her to want to "wrap myself in my veil and run."

"I'd been a classical ballet dancer before a knee injury prevented me from dancing for three years," she says. "I took up belly dancing as physical therapy and loved it immediately. Being Armenian, the music had always been part of my life."

She began performing part-time while working as an editorial associate at Saturday Review, and finally, four years ago, took up belly dancing as a profession and an ancient art form to be cultivated.

"There are differences in style all through the Middle East, but it began centuries ago as a fertility ritual, a celebration of female sexuality, really. Many of the movements are the same as those taught in natural childbirth. Panting produces a flutter in the abdomen, one of our movements, and that's the breathing they teach women in labor. And the stomach roll, which is a contraction of the stomach muscles, is a bearing-down similar to childbirth itself."

"They're very ambivalent about the dance in the Middle East," she continues. "It's always gone with prostitution and it exists on the street level, but in Egypt today they're still hiring highly respected belly dancers called 'awalem' who perform at weddings and serve to give sexual instruction to the bride and groom."

The beauty of the dance, to her, exists in its suppleness and isolated control of the body. "Also, it's improvisational and each dancer is her own choreographer."

And, in addition to "doing the job for the whole body as far as exercise is concerned, it's a very feminine dance. I have students who say they feel more confident now as women."

Finally, it allows the American women some harmless fantasizing. While the record player in Anahid's classroom transmits infectious rhythms performed by exotic instruments, it's difficult not to conjure up images of caftans blowing in the desert wind — and a servant hurrying to summon the sultan's favorite. ## Young couple will win fight against disapproving parents

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16. My boyfriend is 18. He just went into the Air Force. We are getting married as soon as I graduate from high school. Neither of us have any hang-ups about sex. We have a very open and honest relationship.

Ever since we've been going together people have been butting into our affairs, trying to break us up. His parents, especially. He told me they have always tried to run his life. They keep reminding him that he is under their control until he is 21.

Well, he came home last month for a few days. Since that time his folks have been absolutely rotten. They have called me every name in the book from liar to tramp. Every week they write him at least one letter telling him how cheap I am, hoping he will dump me — but he never will. Our song is, "Love Will Keep Us Together."

How can parents be so mean? Please answer in the paper, Ann.—Determined in Niagara Falls.

Dear D.: Reading between the lines, I see a 16-year-old girl who has a very heavy relationship with an 18-year-old boy. His parents don't approve and they are letting their son know it.

You sign yourself "Determined," and I'm sure you are. The more they knock you, the more "Determined" you will be to fight them.

Nothing motivates young people to stick together like parental disapproval. I'm betting you'll win your fight with them, even though you may lose a great deal more. (P.S. to parents everywhere: There's a lesson here someplace.)

Dear Ann Landers: I read recently that vandalism in schools in the United States cost the taxpayers $500 million in 1974. The solution to the problem is so apparent to me I can't understand why others have not thought of it, Ann.

A great deal of damage is done by kids who have too much spare time on their hands. Why don't the schools organize "clean-up crews"? There are so many things they could do, like shovel snow, rake leaves, paint buildings, pick up trash, wash walls and windows, scrub floors. The list is endless. Hands that are busy have a lot better chance of staying out of trouble.—Keep 'Em Working

Dear K.: I like the idea. And I'll bet the kids would like it, too, if the schools called it "Civic Pride, Inc." and put some fun into it. How about it, out there?

Dear Ann Landers: I wouldn't ask anyone this question for fear of sounding too self-important, but I'd like to know if I have cause to feel slightly put-down.

The mother of a friend passed away recently. The deceased was a lovely woman in her 70s. She reminded me of my own mother. Although I didn't see her often (nor did I know her well) I felt a special affection for her. I wrote a letter of condolence to my friend expressing my sympathy. I spent at least 40 minutes finding just the right words.

This morning I received a printed card of "thanks." It read, "The family of ... wishes to thank you for your kindness during our bereavement." It wasn't even signed. I felt very let down. Am I overly sensitive? When my father died I sent hand-written notes to every individual who wrote letters or cards with a few personal words added. I'd like your views.—Frost-Bitten

Dear Frost-Bitten: A printed card can be warmed up with just a few hand-written words and a signature. Sometimes, however, the grief-stricken are not up to even that—so don't be too harsh in your judgment. (Copyright 1976, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Supermarket hunting for exotic produce

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Do you like exotic fresh fruits and vegetables? Things like daikons, cilantro? Many are brought to the United States by the people who grew up eating them in another country. Today we can find many of them in ethnic markets and specialty stores in cities throughout the country.

Some of these ethnic fresh fruits and vegetables may not be available in your neighborhood yet. Some are but it takes a little bit of sleuthing in the produce department of your supermarket to turn up at least a few exotic examples.

Sampling the fruits and vegetables favored by people of other nationalities can be a mind-expanding journey. If you spot a strange-looking fruit or vegetable, take the time to get acquainted with it. Ask the salesperson how it's prepared. Many supermarket chains provide such advice now. Take it home and taste it. You may find you've made a pleasant discovery.

To help you start your international adventure, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association suggests some of the following items in the vast array of ethnic fruits and vegetables, with tips on how to choose and prepare them.

Cherimoya means "cold seeds." Popular in Mexico, this fruit is almost heart-shaped. Green-colored when ripe, its skin has a faint medallion-like pattern. It is also grown in the Indies and Australia. When chilled, it has a natural sherbet texture and is sometimes called "sherbet fruit" or "custard apple." Its flavor resembles a combination of fresh pineapple, strawberry and banana. Choose fruit and fairly uniform green color, free of mold or cracks at the stem end. Ripen at room temperature until it yields to gentle pressure with the palms of the hands. The largest are regarded best.

The jicama is to Mexico what the potato is to the United States. A root tuber, it looks like a turnip but tastes like a water chestnut and is a less expensive substitute. Choose jicama as you would a potato, looking for the smaller ones to avoid woodiness. There are two kinds of jicama: agua, which has a watery juice, and leche, which has a milky juice. The only way to tell the difference is by tasting. To eat a jicama, cut it into thin slices and sprinkle with sugar.

From the Orient comes daikon, a Japanese radish. It comprises nearly one-third of the tonnage of vegetables grown in Japan. An important crop in Hawaii as well the daikon tastes a bit hotter than the common radish. A long, tapered vegetable, the daikon is eight to ten inches long and about one and one-half inches in diameter at its top. It may be pickled or shredded as is and used as a relish, tossed raw into soups, or served in thin strips on vegetable trays. Daikon should be stored in the refrigerator. The Chinese water chestnut grows widely in the tropics of the Old World. The skin is chestnut brown in color, with a chestnut flavor and white flesh. They are a delicacy in Chinese cookery and are extensively eaten raw in the Orient. The flesh is apple-like, sweet and starchy. Should you find some fresh water chestnuts, you can store them in the refrigerator in a loosely covered jar or in a loose plastic bag. Water chestnuts seem made to go with almost any food, from omelets to soups to salads to steaks.

Jacobs' honored on 55th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs Sr., Harmon, were honored at a dinner at the Homestead in Sterling Sunday by 67 members of their immediate family, in observance of the couple's 55th wedding anniversary.

Mr. Jacobs and Lucinda Portner were married Jan. 20, 1921 in Dixon. They are the parents of seven children: Mrs. Raymond (Lucille) Bohn, rural Amboy; Mrs. Lyman (Helen) DeWaele, Walnut; Mrs. John (Dora) Dimmig, Amboy; John Jacobs Jr., Nachusa; Mrs. Russell (Gladys) Willstead, Amboy; Earl Jacobs, Harmon; Mrs. Keith (Grace) Willstead, Harmon. They have 31 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Those attending the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bohn and Donna, rural Amboy; Mr. and Mrs. Don Huber, Dawn and Krystan, Oswego; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bauer and Colleen, Compton; Mr. and Mrs. Lyman DeWaele, Marvin, Florence, Ida, Phillip, Phyllis, Howard, Kenneth, and Ralph; Mr. and Mrs. John DeWaele and Anna, all of Walnut; Mrs. John Dimmig, Gary and Greg, Amboy; Robert Dimmig, Lost Nation; Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs Jr., Nachusa; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Jacobs, Mary Ann, John III, April and Randall, Rock Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Willstead and Mike, Amboy; Mr. and Mrs. Don Willstead and Brian, Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Otengheime and Erin, Shabbona; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jacobs and Jeff, Harmon; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Willstead, Ronald, Ricky, Raymond, Rodney and Roger, Harmon.

Afternoon entertainment was furnished by Dennis Jacobs and his band.

Signal void in Blackwood

By Oswald & James Jacoby

When your partner uses Blackwood and you happen to be void of some suit you should have some way of showing that you have that specific first-round control.

The Jacoby method of handling such a situation is to bid six, not five, in the suit you would normally respond in if you consider that your void is a valuable one.

If South were void of either spades or diamonds, he would simply respond five diamonds to his partner's Blackwood. But his missing suit happened to be clubs and West had bid clubs. So South jumped right to six diamonds to show one ace and an apparently important void.

This six-diamond bid made it easy for North to bid seven hearts and it was just as easy for South to wrap up 13 tricks.

Buschmann to direct SVC achievement program

Claire Buschmann, student activities counselor at Sauk Valley College, has been named campus coordinator for the 1975-76 Student Achievement Recognition Program at SVC.

As campus coordinator, Buschmann will supervise the soliciting and gathering of entries, judging, and publicity activities for the student competition, being sponsored for the seventh successive year by Continental Bank, Chicago.

Two Sauk Valley College students, one man and one woman, will be chosen in February by locally selected judges as winners of the campus competition. The two winners will be those individuals who have best demonstrated noteworthy achievements toward their desired career goals and who have shown leadership qualities through participation in campus and community activities.

The winners will receive a $100 cash award and a certificate of merit. Their achievement also qualifies them to compete in the district and final state competition.

Last year, Jan Myers, Milledgeville, and Greg Rehner, Sterling, were selected as the two outstanding SVC students.

This year's award winners from Sauk Valley will participate in one of six district competitions next March with the winners from the 48 other public community college campuses in Illinois. Two finalists will be chosen from each district.

CLAIRE BUSCHMANN

one man and one woman, and each will receive a $250 cash award.

The 12 district winners are then invited to Chicago where two state winners will be selected, again one man and one woman. The two state winners will be honored at an awards banquet in April and each will receive a $1,000 cash award.

Entry applications are now available at SVC from Buschmann. Applications may be submitted by student candidates themselves, members of the community or faculty and administration sponsors until Feb. 13. They should be submitted to Buschmann in Room 1H2.

Program for gifted DHS students is set

Beginning Wednesday a program for especially talented Dixon High School freshmen and sophomore students in creative thinking and writing will be implemented. This program is under the guidance and direction of Dixon High School English Department Chairman George Renne, with student-level direction to be provided by Dixon High School teachers Lois Brottmiller, Rose Wendler, Merlin Willard and Marie Helin.

This program will feature a series of full-day sessions for the 20 Dixon High School students especially selected for participation. Students have been selected based on several criteria including intelligence, achievement, attitude, and special aptitude for creative thought and writing. The sessions will be devoted to a variety of activities, including a sharing with adults with a particular flair for creative thinking and writing as well as an ability to instruct in the writing process, and an opportunity to write individually and as a group. One goal of the program is to produce a booklet of the better material generated through this program.

Financing for this special program is through a state-level grant from the Illinois Office of Education Department of Exceptional Children-Gifted Section. The program is one of several planned and implemented by the Dixon Public Schools for students identified as gifted or talented in the language arts area. Junior-high-level students are in their second year of participation in a creativity program guided by their language-arts teachers.

Schuneman to participate in insurance hearing

SPRINGFIELD — Problems confronting the insurance industry as a result of recent legislative changes in the workmen's compensation law will be considered by the Illinois Insurance Study Commission at an initial public hearing in Springfield Wednesday.

Senator James F. Bell (R-Joliet), chairman of a special subcommittee, said the hearing will be the forerunner of additional fact-finding sessions to determine the ability of the private insurance market to satisfy the demand for various types of workmen's compensation insurance.

Representative Calvin W. Schuneman (R-Prophetstown) and Senator Bell are members of the subcommittee assigned to the task by Representative Bernard E. Epton (R-Chicago), chairman of the ten-member bipartisan legislative study commission.

"Our primary objective," Senator Bell explained, "is to define the problem since benefits provided under workmen's compensation policies were substantially increased in the last session."

"At the same time," he added, "most insurance companies have been experiencing adverse results in their property and casualty business and as a consequence have restricted their writings in all lines of business. The legislative changes have increased the risk assumed by insurers and hence the cost of insurance."

Senator Bell said that as a result of these factors there has been a doubling of applications in the assigned risk plan for such insurance in the last six months of 1975 after the new law was enacted.

Witnesses invited to provide testimony at the initial hearing include the Illinois Industrial Commission, the Independent Insurance Agents of Illinois, the Chicago Board of Realtors, and the Illinois Association of Mutual Insurance Agents. An invitation also has been extended to officials of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

A second hearing will be held Feb. 25 in Springfield when six other groups will offer testimony.

The initial hearing will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, in Room A-1 at the State Office Building adjacent to the Capitol in Springfield.

Sexual abuse of Singer patient is alleged

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A patient and a former employee of the Singer Zone Center mental health hospital in Rockford have accused another former employee of sexually abusing them, and Rockford authorities said Friday they are investigating the charges.

Some of the charges were made by a 16-year-old patient who claimed she was brought into the worker's Rockford apartment and was asked to have sex with a boy living there, said State's Atty. Philip G. Reinhard of Winnebago County.

Other charges were lodged by a former employee, Reinhard said.

He said the investigation centers on charges that the worker, who resigned from the Mental Health Department in December and whose name was not released, had sexual encounters with youths in his apartment.

Reinhard said his office has not been able to verify some of the charges.

The worker reportedly was employed at Singer for seven years, performing family counseling part-time and treating emotionally disturbed children who were patients at the hospital.

Officials at the state hospital were not immediately available for comment.

To be eligible, a student must be in good academic standing and have completed nine semester hours at SVC at the time of the final judging in April.

Continental Bank is sponsoring and administering the program and is providing more than $14,000 in award money. The purpose of the program is to focus more public attention on Illinois community colleges by highlighting individual student accomplishments. It is not a scholarship awards competition, but rather a program designed to five community and statewide recognition to two-year college students for outstanding individual achievement.

New lottery game starts

CHICAGO (AP) — Here are the winning numbers drawn Friday night in the first drawing of the new Super Shot Game of the Illinois State Lottery:

45
926
4981
40197
Color: brown.

Matching the two-digit number wins $5. That increases to $15 if the color is matched as well. Also, matching the two-digit number qualifies the ticket holder for one of two special $500,000 drawings. The first will be held after six weeks of the game, the second after the final week.

Matching the three-digit number wins $20, and if the color also is matched then $40 is won.

The color does not apply for the other numbers. Matching the four-digit number earns $100, the five-digit number earns $500 and the six-digit number earns $1,000 and qualification for the next week's $100,000 Super Shot drawing.

There was no $100,000 drawing Friday since it was the first time winning numbers were drawn.

Juvenile charged in bus damage

Lee County Sheriff's deputies Friday charged a 16-year-old Ashton youth with criminal damage to property in connection with Wednesday night's vandalism to four Ashton buses at the high school.

Sheriff Ray Nehring said school officials discovered Thursday morning that coil wires had been pulled and sugar put in the gas tanks of the four buses.

Sheriff's deputies released the youth to the custody of his parents, and he will appear in juvenile court at a later date.

Special meeting in Compton

COMPTON — The Compton Village Board members will meet at a special board meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the fire station.

The meeting is being called by streets and alley chairman, Francis Bauer. He will preside in the absence of village board president, Bud Jacobs, who is vacationing. The board's regular meeting date is the first Monday of the month.

Fire in Scarboro

COMPTON — The Compton Fire Department was called to Scarboro early this morning to extinguish a barn fire.

Firefighters were called to the home of Stan Durin, Scarboro about 1:20 a.m. The cause of the fire was attributed to an electrical disorder. Lee and Paw Paw firefighters were also called but only minor damage was reported.

2 arrested after crash

Two persons were arrested by Dixon Police on various charges following an accident on South Galena Avenue at the school crossing.

According to reports, a car driven by Donald Smith, 19, 403 E. Seventh St., was traveling north on Galena Avenue on the inside lane when it swerved to the outside lane to avoid hitting an unidentified car stopped at the crossing. The car Smith was driving then jumped the curb and struck the traffic light at the crossing. Smith is reported to have left the scene of the accident. The auto Smith was driving was owned by John C. Germanson, 321 College Ave.

Smith was charged by police for driving while his license was suspended and leaving the scene of a property damage accident. Germanson was charged with permitting an unauthorized person to drive and failure to secure a new registration.

Bidding Sunday on property

Congressman Tom Railsback, (R-19th Dist.) has been advised by the Department of Housing and Urban Development that three pieces of property (two in Moline and one in Dixon) are being offered for bid on Sunday.

Unfortunately, the advertisements for these properties are limited to the Chicago area newspapers and therefore will not be published locally.

Congressman Railsback is concerned that this will not allow potential local buyers an equal opportunity to bid on these properties. But HUD maintains they cannot advertise small numbers of area properties in local newspapers because of the cost of such ads. HUD officials have assured the Congressman, however, that they will advertise locally when a substantial number of properties is available in this area.

"I SELDOM BUMP MY HEAD"—Don Koehler, a 50-year-old bachelor, comes through the door of his office at a truck-lift manufacturing firm near Chicago. Koehler, who is 8-feet-2, is listed in the Guinness Book of Records as the world's tallest living person. He says, "I seldom bump my head, I've developed a sixth sense." (AP Wirephoto)

World's tallest man tries to lead a normal life

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Koehler says he tries to lead a normal life although he always is looking down on people.

At 8-feet-2, he is listed in the Guinness Book of Records as the world's tallest living person.

"About the most humorous thing that happens to me is being gently pinched on the legs by little old women who look up at me and smile," says 50-year-old Koehler, a veteran advertising assistant at a hydraulic lift truck manufacturer.

"When I'm at parties or in conferences, I put people at ease by saying such things as 'this chair is too low,' or 'the top of the doorway is dusty,'" he said. "I've sobered up many a drunk coming out of taverns and bumping into me. And I always have to remember to swing wide around the corner of a building so people won't come on me suddenly and get scared."

"I seldom bump my head," he continued. "I've developed a sixth sense. The only time I bump my head is when I have a bad cold. My radar gets blocked up. When I duck through a door, I look down and see the people with me also ducking, automatically. I get a laugh out of that."

Koehler, a bachelor, said he never has permitted himself to be exploited.

"I refuse to be used in a side-show way or commercial gimmickery," he said. "I went out for high school basketball but I was too slow. I would wind up at one end of the court and my teammates would be at the other. I was invited to practice with the Globetrotters, but that didn't last long."

"I've done everything to be just a normal guy and be accepted as such. If a friend came by in a Volkswagen, I got in. My parents never made anything out of me bumping my head. I've always been just a salesman to my employer. I've been a member of Tall Clubs International for 20 years and it's given me a new outlet in life. Men have to be over 6-2 and women over 5-10. We meet every couple of weeks and go places and do things together. The Chicago chapter has 130 members."

Koehler said he shopped for months before finding an apartment with ceilings 8 feet, 6 inches high and no light fixtures hanging down. He drives a large model car by installing a bucket seat back against the rear seat. He sleeps in a bed eight feet long—"I don't want it longer because I'm used to having my toes over the end."

When he travels a great distance he tries for a giant 747 jetliner "because it has eight-foot ceilings and I can fit into the john." He sits in a seat behind a bulkhead for more leg room and with his knees up, he eats off a pillow on his lap instead of the usual tray.

At hotels he fits two double beds together. He said most hotels that know he is registering sew two sheets together for his bed.

Only once has he had a run-in with his fellow man. "I came out of a card game late one night and got in my car in a parking lot," he said. "Two ornery-looking guys came up and ordered me to get out. When I did, one of them ran one way and his partner ran the other way. And I also ran. I was as scared as they were."

Kishwaukee instructor meets with ag officials

MALTA — Kishwaukee College's Ron Heisner met with several Peace Corps and U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) officials recently in Washington, D.C.

A year ago, Heisner, a former member of the Peace Corps visited Thailand and Malaysia during the semester break to learn more about the international ag program needs.

Kishwaukee College is starting a two-year Associate of Science degree program in International Ag Tech. It will be one of the few such programs in the country.

Heisner met with Dr. Robert R. Spitzer, director of Food for Peace, U.S. AID to discuss the role of the community college ag students in international development in cooperation with the Peace Corps and AID during the first day of his three day visit, Jan. 7-9.

Heisner's agenda for the second day included discussion with Jorge Perez Ponce, director of the International Programs for the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges (AACJC); giving an address on the "Role of Associate of Applied Science Degree Ag Graduates in the Peace Corps;" and discussion with a speech writer for Earl Butz, the Secretary of Agriculture for a Senate presentation.

Discussion on several international ag programs highlighted the third day. Several AID and Peace Corps officials as well as a Senate Aid to Kansas Senator Robert Dole and Future Ag Resource Manpower (FARM) officials discussed the Christian Service Corps, the International Development and Food Assistance Act signed Dec. 20, the future of Kishwaukee's FARM consortium and Kishwaukee's new International Ag Tech program.

Heisner said the International Development signed in December would "... signal the sure and steady long-range development of farm programs overseas ..." as the United States tries to help other countries in the development of growing more and different types of foods.

Heisner added the AACJC recognizes Kishwaukee College as the leader in the move to develop international ag programs and help solve the world's hunger problem.

As a follow up to the Washington and overseas trip a year ago, John Ferguson, the Ag Program Technical director in Malaysia for the Peace Corps will be at Kishwaukee College to talk about international agriculture needs, Monday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For further information about the international ag program at Kishwaukee, contact Heisner at 825-2086, ext. 288

Record education budget pondered

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Board of Education is considering a record education budget of almost $1.9 billion for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The budget was proposed Thursday, but the board is not expected to act upon it until its next meeting Feb. 12 in Springfield.

The board also accepted a budget request of $100 million for a supplemental appropriation to cover expenses through the current fiscal year. The supplemental appropriation would restore some of the education funds vetoed by Gov. Daniel Walker last year. Any action by the board on the request, however, must still be approved by Walker and the General Assembly.

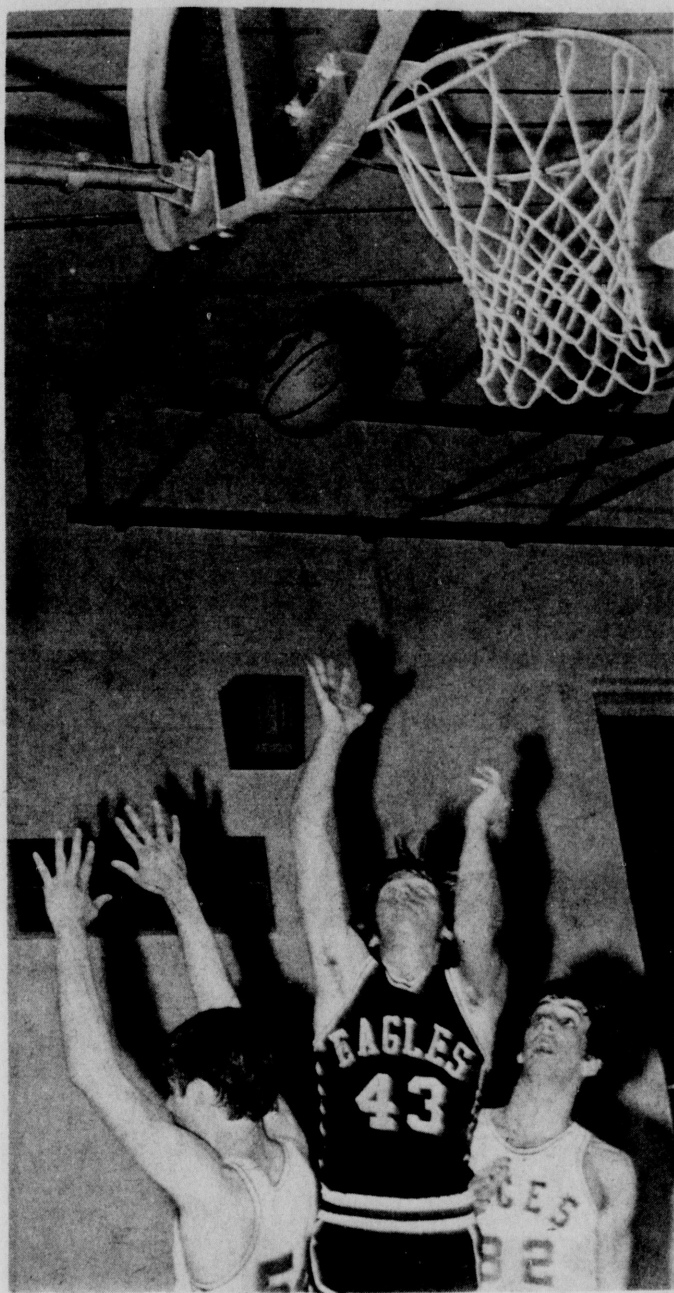

The proposed allocation for fiscal 1977 is $1,894,164,000, $327.4 million or 21 per cent higher than the budget for fiscal 1976.

The largest item in the proposed budget is $1.35 billion in distributive aid. It includes almost $333 million for grants-in-aid as well as money for the common school fund, board operating costs, vocational and technical education and the teachers retirement fund.

On the subject of the supplemental appropriation, board budget director Frank Woodcock said that if it is not approved perhaps 90 per cent of the state's 1,038 school districts may have to borrow money to meet expenses for the current fiscal year.

Dr. Joseph M. Cronin, state education superintendent, said he expects the legislature to approve the appropriation, but did not know Walker's position.

DOUG HILLISON lays one up destined for the nets in second-quarter action of the Franklin Center-Ashton Upstate Illini contest Friday evening. ## Brandau has 36, Ohio triumphs

OHIO — Dick Ogan won the game ball, here, Friday night but the basketball could qualify as a used piece of merchandise, especially after what Jim Brandau did with it.

Brandau utilized the ball for 15 baskets and a half dozen free throws to pace the Ohio Bulldogs to an 81-60 basketball triumph over the LaMoille Lions in a game that counted in both the Little Eight and Bureau Valley standings.

Ogan won the basketball raffle for the benefit of former Manlius student John Dale, who was injured last summer. The raffle was conducted by the Ohio Varsity Club.

Ohio raced to a 17-10 first quarter lead with Keith Yucus hitting for six points and Dan Piper five. Brandau then poured through 18 markers in the second stanza as the Bulldogs stretched their advantage to 44-23 at half.

LaMoille closed to 11 in the third quarter before Ohio head coach Dave Mead called for a time-out. "We weren't moving on defense and our offense was not doing anything either," Mead revealed.

After the rest, Ohio reeled off the next nine points and the Bulldogs coasted after that. Brandau had six points in each of the three other quarters to end the night with 36 markers. Keith Yucus and Tom Yucus added a dozen each.

Ohio was 31 of 69 from the field for 45 per cent while limiting LaMoille to only 18 baskets (36 shots for 50 per cent). Brandau came up with nine steals while Tom Yucus, Keith Yucus and Piper tacked on three each.

La Moille held a 38-27 edge on the boards with Brandau getting nine, Tom Yucus eight and Keith Yucus six. Duane Blaine dished out five assists with Piper getting four. Tom Yucus and Tom Sibigroth got three apiece.

Ohio, now 4-0 in the Little Eight and 3-0 in the Bureau Valley plus 11-2 overall, will open the Little Eight Conference tournament at Tampico on Monday versus Tiskilwa.

Demons win 68-61

LEAF RIVER — All five starters collected 11 or more points here Friday night as the Leaf River Demons upped their Upstate Illini Conference mark to 3-5 with a 68-61 decision over Durand.

Brad Miller hooped 17 points and grabbed 13 rebounds to pace the Demons, now 4-12 overall. Rick Williams added 13 points while Steve Cornelius and Eric Nelson added a dozen each. Jay Leisson tossed in 11.

Cornelius handed out eight assists. Bob Waller had 18 points, Bob Smith 17 and Randy Rhyner 16 for Durand, now 1-5 in the Upstate.

Jeff Jahn returns to help Eagles overcome Aces

By JIM FOX
Telegraph Sports Writer

ASHTON — Everyone expected a close game because of the bitter rivalry between Franklin Center and Ashton, here, Friday night. But no one counted on the appearance of Franklin Center senior guard Jeff Jahn, who has been sidelined with a foot injury for the past four weeks.

Jahn responded in his first showing of 1976 with five first-half markers and 11 second-half points, eight in a key fourth quarter, to total 16 as the visiting Eagles edged the Ashton Aces 64-54 in an Upstate Illini tilt.

"Jeff Jahn was the difference in the game," stated a disappointed Fred Harm, Aces head coach. "His scoring was not the key as much as his ball control, his quickness, his passing off and his penetration. He was just too much for us."

"Jeff played an outstanding game, considering he had not run the length of the court all week," stated Eagles coach Denny Kessel. "I did not plan on using Jeff tonight unless it was necessary."

"But our offense was stagnant in the early going. Offensively, especially in the second quarter, we lost a lot of our movement and could not penetrate their man-to-man defense. So, I decided to put Jahn in midway into the period. By putting him in I knew it would stimulate the crowd and give the team a psychological lift."

Jahn entered at 4:31 of the second period, with the hosting Aces on top 19-17. The first period was one of extreme closeness as both squads exchanged bucket for bucket.

Larry Nass started the ball rolling for the Aces, connecting on a three-point play at 6:05. An Ashton turnover allowed accurate-shooting Eagle senior Doug Hillison the chance to hit on a 15-footer. Senior forward Jeff Heckman dropped in a charity toss at 4:22 to knot the score at three and set the stage for a close game until the fourth period.

Hillison pumped eight points home in the first quarter to counter the efforts of Nass's and forward Mike Pfeiffer's four. Hillison swished a pair of free throws in the closing seconds to boost the Eagles into a 14-13 one-period lead.

Jeff Roop hit on a long shot at the outset of the second quarter, the junior's only points of the first half, to enlarge the Eagles lead to 16-13, but then Aces' guard Mike Caldwell started to hit with consistency. After a Jeff Meiners bucket, who also appeared in his first game after a month's absence and popped in 10 points in looking well on the court, Caldwell sank two free throws and a 20-footer and suddenly the hosts had a three-point advantage of 19-16 at 4:38.

Heckman dumped in a free throw at 4:31 and at the same time Jahn entered and received a great ovation from the Eagles section, and a mixed reception from the Aces fans. In the two-minute stint the senior was in he only attempted one shot, that being an offensive rebound that did not find the nets.

Caldwell pumped a 15-footer through for an Ashton 21-17 lead before the Eagles came back to once again grab the margin. Heckman hit on a turn-around jumper, while Hillison dropped in a layup to knot the score. Jeff Huber potted two charity tosses at 1:54 to take the lead 23-21.

Jahn re-entered at 1:51 for Roop and decided to take a few shots. The 5'5" guard could not connect on his first couple attempts, and the misses were definitely misses. But at 1:20 Jahn stole the ball and put in an easy layup to give the Eagles a 25-23 margin, and then hit on a 20-footer at :27 and emitted a sigh of relief when the attempt went through. A free throw with a few seconds to go gave Jahn five points in the half.

In the last minute of action in the second period, Warner dropped in four markers to keep Ashton in the thick of things. Caldwell brought the Aces within one at half, 28-27, on a 15-footer at :16.

Ashton forward Marc Heinhorst came out strong in the opening minutes of the third period, connecting for six points and catapulting the Aces into a five-point lead, 35-30, at 5:17. The only bucket scored by the Eagles was a 25-foot jumper from the hands of Roop, and Kessel called for time.

"In that time-out I told the guys that I thought we were in control of the game and that we could physically wear them down if we kept the pressure on them. They definitely looked tired and did take its toll in the fourth quarter."

Doug Westra, Jahn, Hillison and Heckman all hit on layups as the period progressed, while Huber sank a 20-footer to pull Franklin Center back into a close game. Caldwell, who led all scorers with 18 markers on the night, pumped in a pair of jumpers to balance the Eagles' scoring, and after three quarters, a fantastic 41-41 game was going.

But the fourth quarter belonged to the visitors. Ashton was hurt badly in two respects in the period. One was the amount of turnovers that evolved and the other key factor was Meiners' fouling out at 5:30.

"When Meiners fouled out it just destroyed our chances of any comeback," stated Harm in the locker room. "Jeff led our attack and without him in there, there was a gap."

Jahn led the Eagle attack in the final period with eight markers, two layups that displayed his old driving ability towards the bucket, one short jumper and a pair of free throws. Heckman, who fouled out at 3:02, picked up only one point in the quarter before leaving but came down with a couple of big rebounds and totaled 12 points in the game.

"Heckman played one outstanding game. The game was won on the boards and our fourth-period board dominance did it for us. Heckman helped with two or three key rebounds."

"Hillison also played an outstanding game. He has been showing more movement on the offense and penetrating well. He has shown a lot of progress character-wise and helps fill in the leadership gap when Jahn is not in there." Hillison finished with 15 markers, six buckets and three free throws.

Numerous turnovers killed the Aces in the last eight minutes, and even though Nass and Caldwell pumped in seven markers between them while Heinhorst hit on a baseline bucket, Ashton could not come back once Franklin Center took margins of seven, nine and even 12 points.

"Our kids played their hearts out," commented Harm. "We know it is only a basketball game, but we like to approach it as something we do well. It was a must game for us and we wanted to beat them badly."

"When they broke away in the fourth quarter, Jahn was the difference. He has a supreme influence out there on a basketball court. You have to give Kessel and the Franklin Center players credit. I feel we can still beat them."

On the night, Ashton outbounded the Eagles 37-34. Meiners picked up 13 rebounds, nine defensive. Westra and Heckman each grabbed 13 for the victors.

Sweet retires at Kable

MT. MORRIS — Orville R. Sweet, a Kable Printing Company employee with more than 33 years service, retired at the end of 1975.

An expert in the moving of stock and printed matter, Sweet's career at Kable revolved around trucking and traffic operations. During his more than three decades with the company he handled or supervised the movement of several hundred thousand loads of everything from wire strap to fine quality catalogs and publications.

Sweet came to Kable in October 1942. He was employed first as a receiving clerk in the Traffic Department and upon returning from World War Two Army service went into stock work. He was promoted to assistant foreman of the Stockroom in 1951 and to foreman in 1957. Later, he was foreman of the Work-In-Process area. Following a realignment of responsibilities in 1973, he returned to the Stockroom.

In his honor, employees in the Paper Stock Department had a farewell coffee and cake party for Sweet on his final day at work, Dec. 30. The inscription

ORVILLE R. SWEET on the cake, a clue to his favorite leisure activity, read: "Happy Retirement, Orville. Look out, Golf Course!"

Satterfield is promoted

The Woods Division of Heston Corporation, Oregon, Ill., announces the appointment of Jerry Satterfield to the position of Production Superintendent.

A native of the Oregon area, Satterfield, upon completing his education in 1956, joined the Air Branch of the Marine Corp and for two years served as an Aviation Electronics Technician. In 1958, after his discharge from the Service, he was employed by the Aviation Division of the Sunstrand Corporation, in Rockford.

Satterfield joined Woods in May of 1974 as General Foreman, the position he has held until his recent promotion.

Jerry, his wife Shirley, and their seven children reside in Oregon, Ill.

Kable signs multi-year contract

Kable Printing Company announced today that it has signed a multi-year agreement with S&M Rotogravure Service, Inc., Milwaukee, which provides for the continued production by S&M of press-ready rotogravure cylinders for Kable.

The S&M agreement is the second long-term cylinder manufacturing agreement signed by Kable in recent weeks.

On December 9th, William E. Shaw, Kable's vice president and general manager, announced that Kable had strengthened its ability to provide high-quality rotogravure cylinders for its customers with the signing of a multi-year agreement with Progressive Graphics Company, an Oregon, Ill., based firm located approximately seven miles from the Kable plant.

Shaw noted that Kable, which is one of the nation's leading printers of magazines, catalogs and other periodicals, also has several other top-quality cylinder manufacturing sources in Chicago and Milwaukee.

Under terms of this latest agreement, S&M will be responsible for performing a wide-range of cylinder operations including stripping, plating and grinding of cylinders, lugging of positives, carbon printing, lay-down and developing, staging, etching, finishing, proofing, mark-up, re-etching and re-finishing.

Shaw pointed out that S&M has been providing press-ready cylinders to Kable for better than a year and "during that time, S&M has demonstrated to our customers that it is a reliable, quality manufacturer of rotogravure cylinders."

sure them service regardless of their time requirements, but we can also offer them the flexibility of being able to select the supplier which best suits our customers' needs.

"Importantly, too," continued Shaw, "now that we are assured of a more than adequate supply of cylinder manufacturers, we can concentrate our efforts fully on developing new gravure customers for Kable."

"Obviously, we still have a good deal of work to do in our sales rebuilding program," Shaw stated, "but this is a very positive step towards obtaining substantial new rotogravure printing."

According to Shaw, a small group of people will continue to be employed within the plant to handle various cylinder maintenance activities. Currently, there are seven employees performing such work.

Herzog to new post

Michael Herzog has assumed the duties of Staff Accountant in the Bloomington corporate accounting office.

In this position, Mike will be responsible for the control of authorizations for expenditures, governmental reports, insurance and property tax analysis, coordination of the annual operating budget and supervision of the overhead statement preparation and expense disbursement functions.

Mike is a 1973 accounting graduate of Illinois State University.

Since graduation, Mike has been with the CPA firm of Herman & Cornary in Charleston, West Va. He has recently relocated to Bloomington, Ill.

Herzog is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Herzog, Dixon.

Pratt is given nuclear contract

The Henry Pratt Company, Aurora, has received an order from Florida Power & Light for $1.5 million to supply butterfly valves for its 890 MW St. Lucie Unit No. 2 nuclear-fueled electric generating plant. The plant is located near Ft. Pierce, Fla., and is a duplicate of Unit No. 1 (Formerly known as Hutchinson Island).

Of the valves ordered from Pratt, more than one-half will be N-Stamp valves conforming to Section III of the ASME Boiler and Pressure Vessel Code. In addition, the valves must meet the very stringent material and welding specifications of Ebasco Services, the consulting engineers for the project.

The N-Stamp valves, which are for piping systems ranging in size from 3 inch to 48 inch in diameter, will be used in both water and air service, including containment air purge, exhaust and component cooling.

The remaining butterfly valves in the order will be used in the plant's circulating water system. The largest of these valves are for piping systems 84 inches in diameter. Because sea water will be used, the valves will make extensive use of stainless steel, high-nickel content ferrous alloys and thick rubber linings on vital components to prevent corrosion.

Delivery of the valves is expected to begin during the summer of 1977.

Leftwich replaces Geary

As a result of a major acquisition by Central Telephone & Utilities (CTU), Samuel E. Leftwich has succeeded W. T. Geary as Vice President and Division Manager of Central Telephone Company of Illinois.

Geary, who headed Centel's Illinois Division since early 1974, has been elected president of the recently acquired Mid-Texas Communications Systems, Inc., serving about 80,000 telephones located principally in Killeen and the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport in Texas.

Leftwich comes to Illinois from Centel's North Carolina Division where he had served as Vice President and Division Manager since 1968. He has been with the Centel System since 1957, having previously served as District and then Division Traffic Manager stationed in Hickory, N.C. Prior to that, he was Assistant Division Traffic Manager with Virginia Telephone & Telegraph in Charlottesville, Va.

While in North Carolina, Leftwich was very active in numerous civic, fraternal and community groups including Kiwanis Club, the Salvation Army, Masonic Lodge, Boy Scouts of America and the Chamber of Commerce. He has also served as vice president, president and member of the board of directors of the North Carolina Independent Telephone Association.

SAMUEL E. LEFTWICH

In 1974, Leftwich was named Jaycee Boss-of-the-Year. In 1973, he was chosen as North Carolina Independent Telephone Association Man-of-the-Year and also received the Governor's Citizenship Award.

He and his wife Shirley have two children, Karen, age 14, and Bryan, age 12.

The acquisition of Mid-Texas, which prompted the rotation of top managers, represents CTU's largest acquisition since 1965 and will be operated as a wholly owned subsidiary.

According to previously announced terms, Mid-Texas shareholders will exchange their holdings at the rate of nine-tenths of a share of CTU common stock for each Mid-Texas share. Mid-Texas had

MLS sales at $4 million

The 11-month-old multiple listing service of the Lee County Board of Realtors announced at their Dec. 22 meeting that over $4,000,000 in real estate has been sold since the Multiple Listing Service was started, according to Bill McConnell.

The multiple listing service offers to the buying and selling public a much improved marketing program. A buyer can be sure of seeing all the property available for sale in the M.L.S., by going to the M.L.S. Realtor of their choice. The seller can get wide exposure of his property by listing it with M.L.S., Realtors. A printed listing with all of the important information and a picture of the property is distributed to the 16 participating offices with a copy for each salesman. This method has proved a most effective sales tool in selling homes.

Promotion for Kutz

For Sunday, Jan. 25, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

You're likely to experience a few minor frustrations today, but you should be able to cope handsly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Someone whom you'll be closely associated with today may lay a few suggestions on you worthy of consideration. Listen carefully.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

If you put your mind to it today you'll come up with clever ways to save money on something that needs doing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Let your hair down a bit today. Try to see the less serious side of events. Beneath the surface there are a few chuckles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Several family matters may need immediate attention today. Once they're disposed of, pursue lighter interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Companions who are a bit too frivolous are likely to turn you off today. Seek company that's into something heavier.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Information of limited value may filter down to you through a friend today. You'll be able to appraise it for its worth.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Take a firm and realistic stance today on matters directly affecting your self-interests. Speak out for your rights.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Keep what is told you in confidence today strictly to yourself. If others were to have been let in on it, they would know already.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

You could make an older person very happy today if you'd phone and let her know you're thinking about her.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

You're not likely to shun responsibilities today. Your actions will win the admiration of others.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Your words will carry a lot more weight today than you may realize. Use them wisely if advising another.

Jan. 25, 1976

Set realistic, worthwhile goals for yourself this coming year. Begin now to formulate plans by laying strong foundations and moving in a positive direction.

The term, "Newspaper boy", has fallen by the wayside as newspapers all over America are beginning to contract with girls as well as boys to be their newspaper carriers. As newspaper carriers these young boys and girls are learning to manage their own businesses, a valuable experience which is helping them to develop into better future business leaders.

EVERYBODY'S doing it! Selling idle, but no-longer needed items with classified ads.

A high price might keep you from buying a new home.

But a low price shouldn't.

A Wausau Home costs thousands of dollars less than comparable homes. Because of the way we buy materials and the efficiency of our controlled building system.

For example, every Wausau Home is built with the finest grade kiln-dried lumber. 100% copper plumbing. Real ceramic tile walls and floors in the bath.

We buy the very best and we buy in quantity. Which lowers the price, not the quality.

And we build under the very best conditions, indoors, out of the weather.

Stop for a close look at a Wausau Home. But don't let our low prices scare you. That shouldn't keep you from buying the new home you want.

The Doctor Says:

Spastic colon may contribute to hemorrhoids

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—Should a person who has had ulcerative colitis and now has a spastic colon problem, go through with a hemorrhoid operation? Or should they try the injection method?

The hemorrhoids aren't so painful, but they bleed a lot and this is very frustrating.

DEAR READER—The first point is to clarify your diagnosis. Your letter suggests that you have mild ulcerative colitis if you had it at all. Sometimes a number of diseases of the colon are confused with what is basically a spastic colon.

Spastic colon may contribute to developing hemorrhoids. Before any treatment for hemorrhoids, I would recommend that you solve the spastic colon problem. There are a number of things you can do for this.

High on the list of positive things to do is to increase the bulk in your diet, particularly cereal fiber found in bran, and whole wheat cereals and by using real whole wheat bread (not half white flour and half whole wheat flour or colored imitations often sold to the unwary).

Then you should have a bowel training program so you develop normal function. The procedure isn't difficult but involves your habit pattern and diet.

The choice of technique for treatment of hemorrhoids depends on their extent and location. Some internal hemorrhoids can be treated by injection. It is the internal hemorrhoids that tend to bleed and they may not cause any other symptoms, such as pain or itching. Often a person is first aware of the internal hemorrhoids when they start bleeding.

Continued blood loss from any cause from any location, even in small amounts can lead to a loss of iron, producing an iron deficiency with anemia.

External hemorrhoids cause symptoms. The nerve fibers for pain and itching are under the skin. You do not have these pain fibers inside the sphincter where internal hemorrhoids are located. Thus, when a person complains of pain and itching from hemorrhoids it usually involves external hemorrhoids at least as part of the picture.

Incidentally since the painful itching area is outside the sphincter, those suppositories inserted into the rectum above the hemorrhoids sold to the unsuspecting public are totally worthless. External application, not internal, is needed to relieve any symptoms a person has from external hemorrhoids.

The external hemorrhoids that cause symptoms can be removed. They cannot be treated by injection. A decision as to the advisability to treat or not depends on their extent and the amount of symptoms they cause.

Sometimes both internal and external hemorrhoids are present. Elimination of hemorrhoids then requires surgery.

Small external tags can even be removed by tying a rubber band around them but obviously this procedure will not be satisfactory for larger hemorrhoids or those involving both internal and external veins.

Hemorrhoids are nothing more than varicose veins around the rectum. Good bowel habits helps prevent pressure on the veins in this area and reduces the likelihood of hemorrhoids or their complications.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE F-684: Amos J., aged 47, is a patriotic clergyman.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "before Uncle Sam started extracting such high taxes to indulge in welfare, our churches took care of most of such missionary duties at home and abroad.

"And when American aviators in World War II landed behind the enemy lines in the Philippines, as well as South-eastern Asia, the natives were very helpful in aiding them.

"Then the bureaucrats figuratively placed a gun at the head of every worker in America, compelling them to pay huge taxes so Uncle Sam could play Santa Claus to the nations all over the world.

"But Uncle Sam scattered our taxes around in profligate style to feed the starving and duplicate the work our churches had done far more economically for a century.

"Besides, Uncle Sam left out the Christian element in his use of our taxes so those foreign nations are no longer grateful.

"Instead of aiding any American aviators, if we get into World War III, they'll probably turn our men over to the enemy.

"For Uncle Sam's squandering of taxes wasn't even done with the shrewd business methods of Russia.

"The Communists extract their pound of flesh for every dollar they invest and thus grab natural resources plus military bases.

"Uncle Sam, however, not only lent England over $35 billions plus over $11 billions to Russia and $9 billions to France, yet we haven't even been paid interest thereon, which would now far exceed even the original loans.

"And do those nations love Uncle Sam or show the grateful appreciation that our aviators obtained in World War II when they landed in areas where missionaries had taught the natives to honor and respect Americans?

"Certainly not!

"Like the sycophantic friends of the Prodigal Son, they still fawn over America to obtain additional loans, despite their unpaid debts.

"Then will thumb their noses at Uncle Sam behind his back and desert him, as did the false friends of that famous Prodigal Son.

"Why, I have heard that we are still paying rent on the cemeteries in France where our dead boys are buried who went over there in World War I and World War II solely to defend France!

"Isn't it also true that England charges us rent for the very bases we maintain there to defend her against a sudden Russian nuclear attack?

"Yet they still owe us $35 billion, plus interest since 1917.

"So isn't it time our Congress applied a little of what you call 'Horse Sense' and ran our government as a business, not a maudlin philanthropic agency for deadbeat foreign nations?

"And I am not being unChristian in saying this, for the Bible says Jesus refused to indulge the shiftless starving poor or the disbelieving sick!

"For He could have turned stones into bread and banished all disease with a wave of His hand.

"Instead, He let thousands die of hunger and other thousands of disease, as you have so ably pointed out in a previous column.

"Would Christ urge us to feed baby rattlesnakes to they could grow up to be more dangerous to mankind?

"So why subsidize Communism?

"Jesus played ball only with those who believed and joined His team!

"But said He would deny all their pleas to get into Heaven if they didn't publicly confess Him while they still were here on Earth (Matthew 10:33; "
